

ABOUT NCPMA

The North Carolina Pest Management Association (NCPMA) is a nonprofit, professional association dedicated to representing the pest management professionals across North Carolina and providing the general public with the most up-to-date pest management information.

- Founded in 1952 resulting in a 50+ year history of serving the state.
- Works to educate pest professionals statewide and represent and promote the pest management industry.
- Comprised of more than 230 member companies representing more than 2,600 cardholding members.
- Ensures its members receive the training and education needed to produce world-class pest professionals.
- Provides continuing education classes for the state's pest management professionals and offers year-round technical and management education for its members through the Pest Control Technician School and regional workshops.
- Hosts one of the nation's largest pest management training schools, the Winter PCT School.
- Serves as a resource to the media and general public about basic pest management issues and needs.